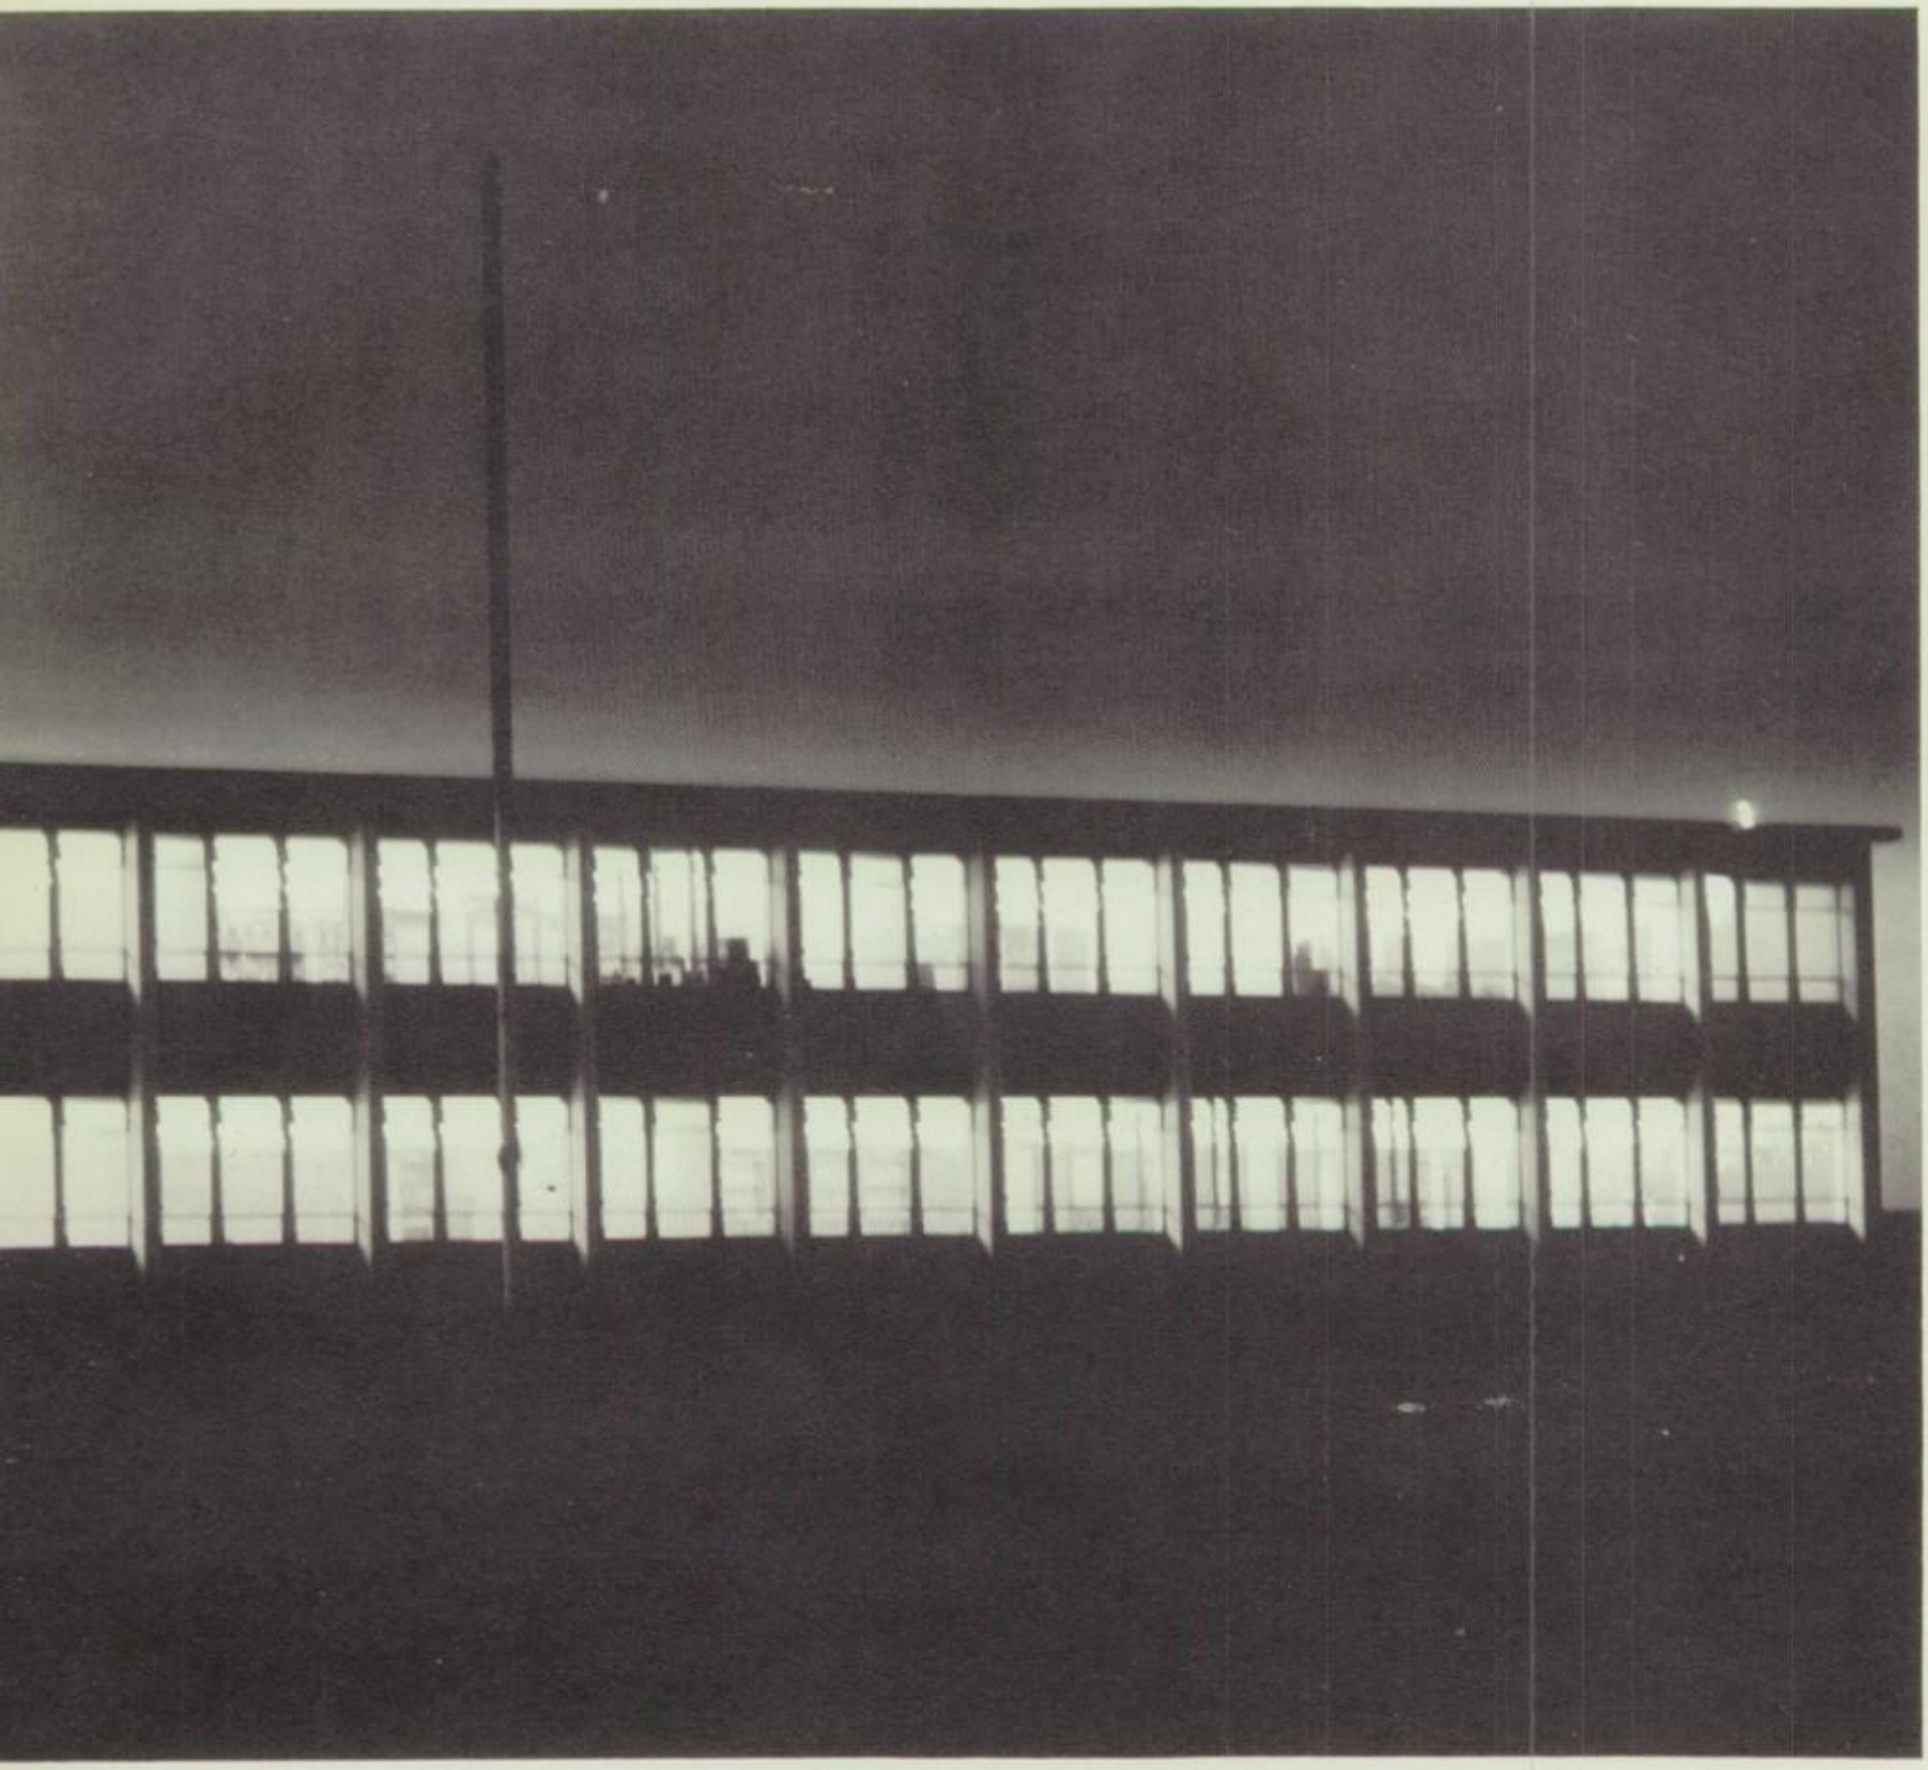
An Alpha,

An alpha and an omega . . . the incipience of this ancient idea . . . blended by tradition . . . transcended to a new environment . . . elevated to new heights. . . . This is Genesis.

The goal of hundreds realized in a lasting structure . . . dedicated to education . . . inaugurated by students. . . . This is Genesis.

The acme of our immediate existence . . . The termination of a vital phase . . . the dawn of our maturity. . . . This is Genesis.



An Omega

The beginning was marked with the fascination of an immaculate environment featuring sparkling corridors, spacious offices, well-illuminated classrooms, ample storage, and modernly-equipped laboratories.

A new administration solved problems and vexations that were encountered by all as we grew accustomed to the building and a new school life.

As the year progressed old traditions and ideals were transplanted into the heart of MHS. But, with each day we added precedents and firsts that will enhance our heritage in following years.

These firsts are revealed, in this our story of Genesis at Maryville High . . .

—The Editors

Construction

A plot of land marked by stakes . . . A set of blueprints . . . From this meager status the present building evolved.

Ground-breaking ceremonies climaxed three years of planning and set the stage for construction.

With each day, the building progressed. Its foundation soon supported forms, the forms became walls, the walls surrounded rooms, and a vision became a reality.

Construction finished and the exodus completed through the summer, students, teachers, and administrators anticipated the opening of the expanded facility where the utilization and application of current concepts in education could be developed.

Jim Whan, Council president as a sophomore, turns the first spade of dirt to officially begin construction on Oct. 28, 1963.

Graduates of '65 inspect the framework of the academic wing.

New Aspects

The cornerstone . . . a symbol of hours of toil, growth, and development of life at Maryville High School.

A metal plaque reflecting the modern vistas where students explore, discover, and marvel at the mental achievement of the learned. These new aspects generate an aura needed for both teaching and learning.

In shop classes, the blinding rays of the acetylene torch . . . In history, the day viewer projecting current events . . . In business, the sound of a calculator totaling figures . . . In home economics, the smell of food coming from a hot oven . . .

These phases represent a beginning.

Stimulate Interest

This Is Genesis

Beginning another day . . .

. . . confronting the hall rush . . .

. . . probing for X . . .

. . . releasing tensions . . .

. . . supporting the team . . .

. . . commonplace, but representative of our immediate existence.

Student Council Initiates

President Jim Whan recognizes Chip Strong's suggestion for preparation of wrestling cheerleader elections while other council members Randy Wood, Chris Carstenson, Terry King, Bill Phares, Alan Goodspeed, Calvin Barratt, Bill Larmer, Patty Miller, Steve Sutton, Caren Young, Steve Carstenson, Lynn Jones, Larry Shaw, Trudy Scott, Ann Schirmer, Steve Schottel, Joe Hull, and Patty Beeks listen intently.

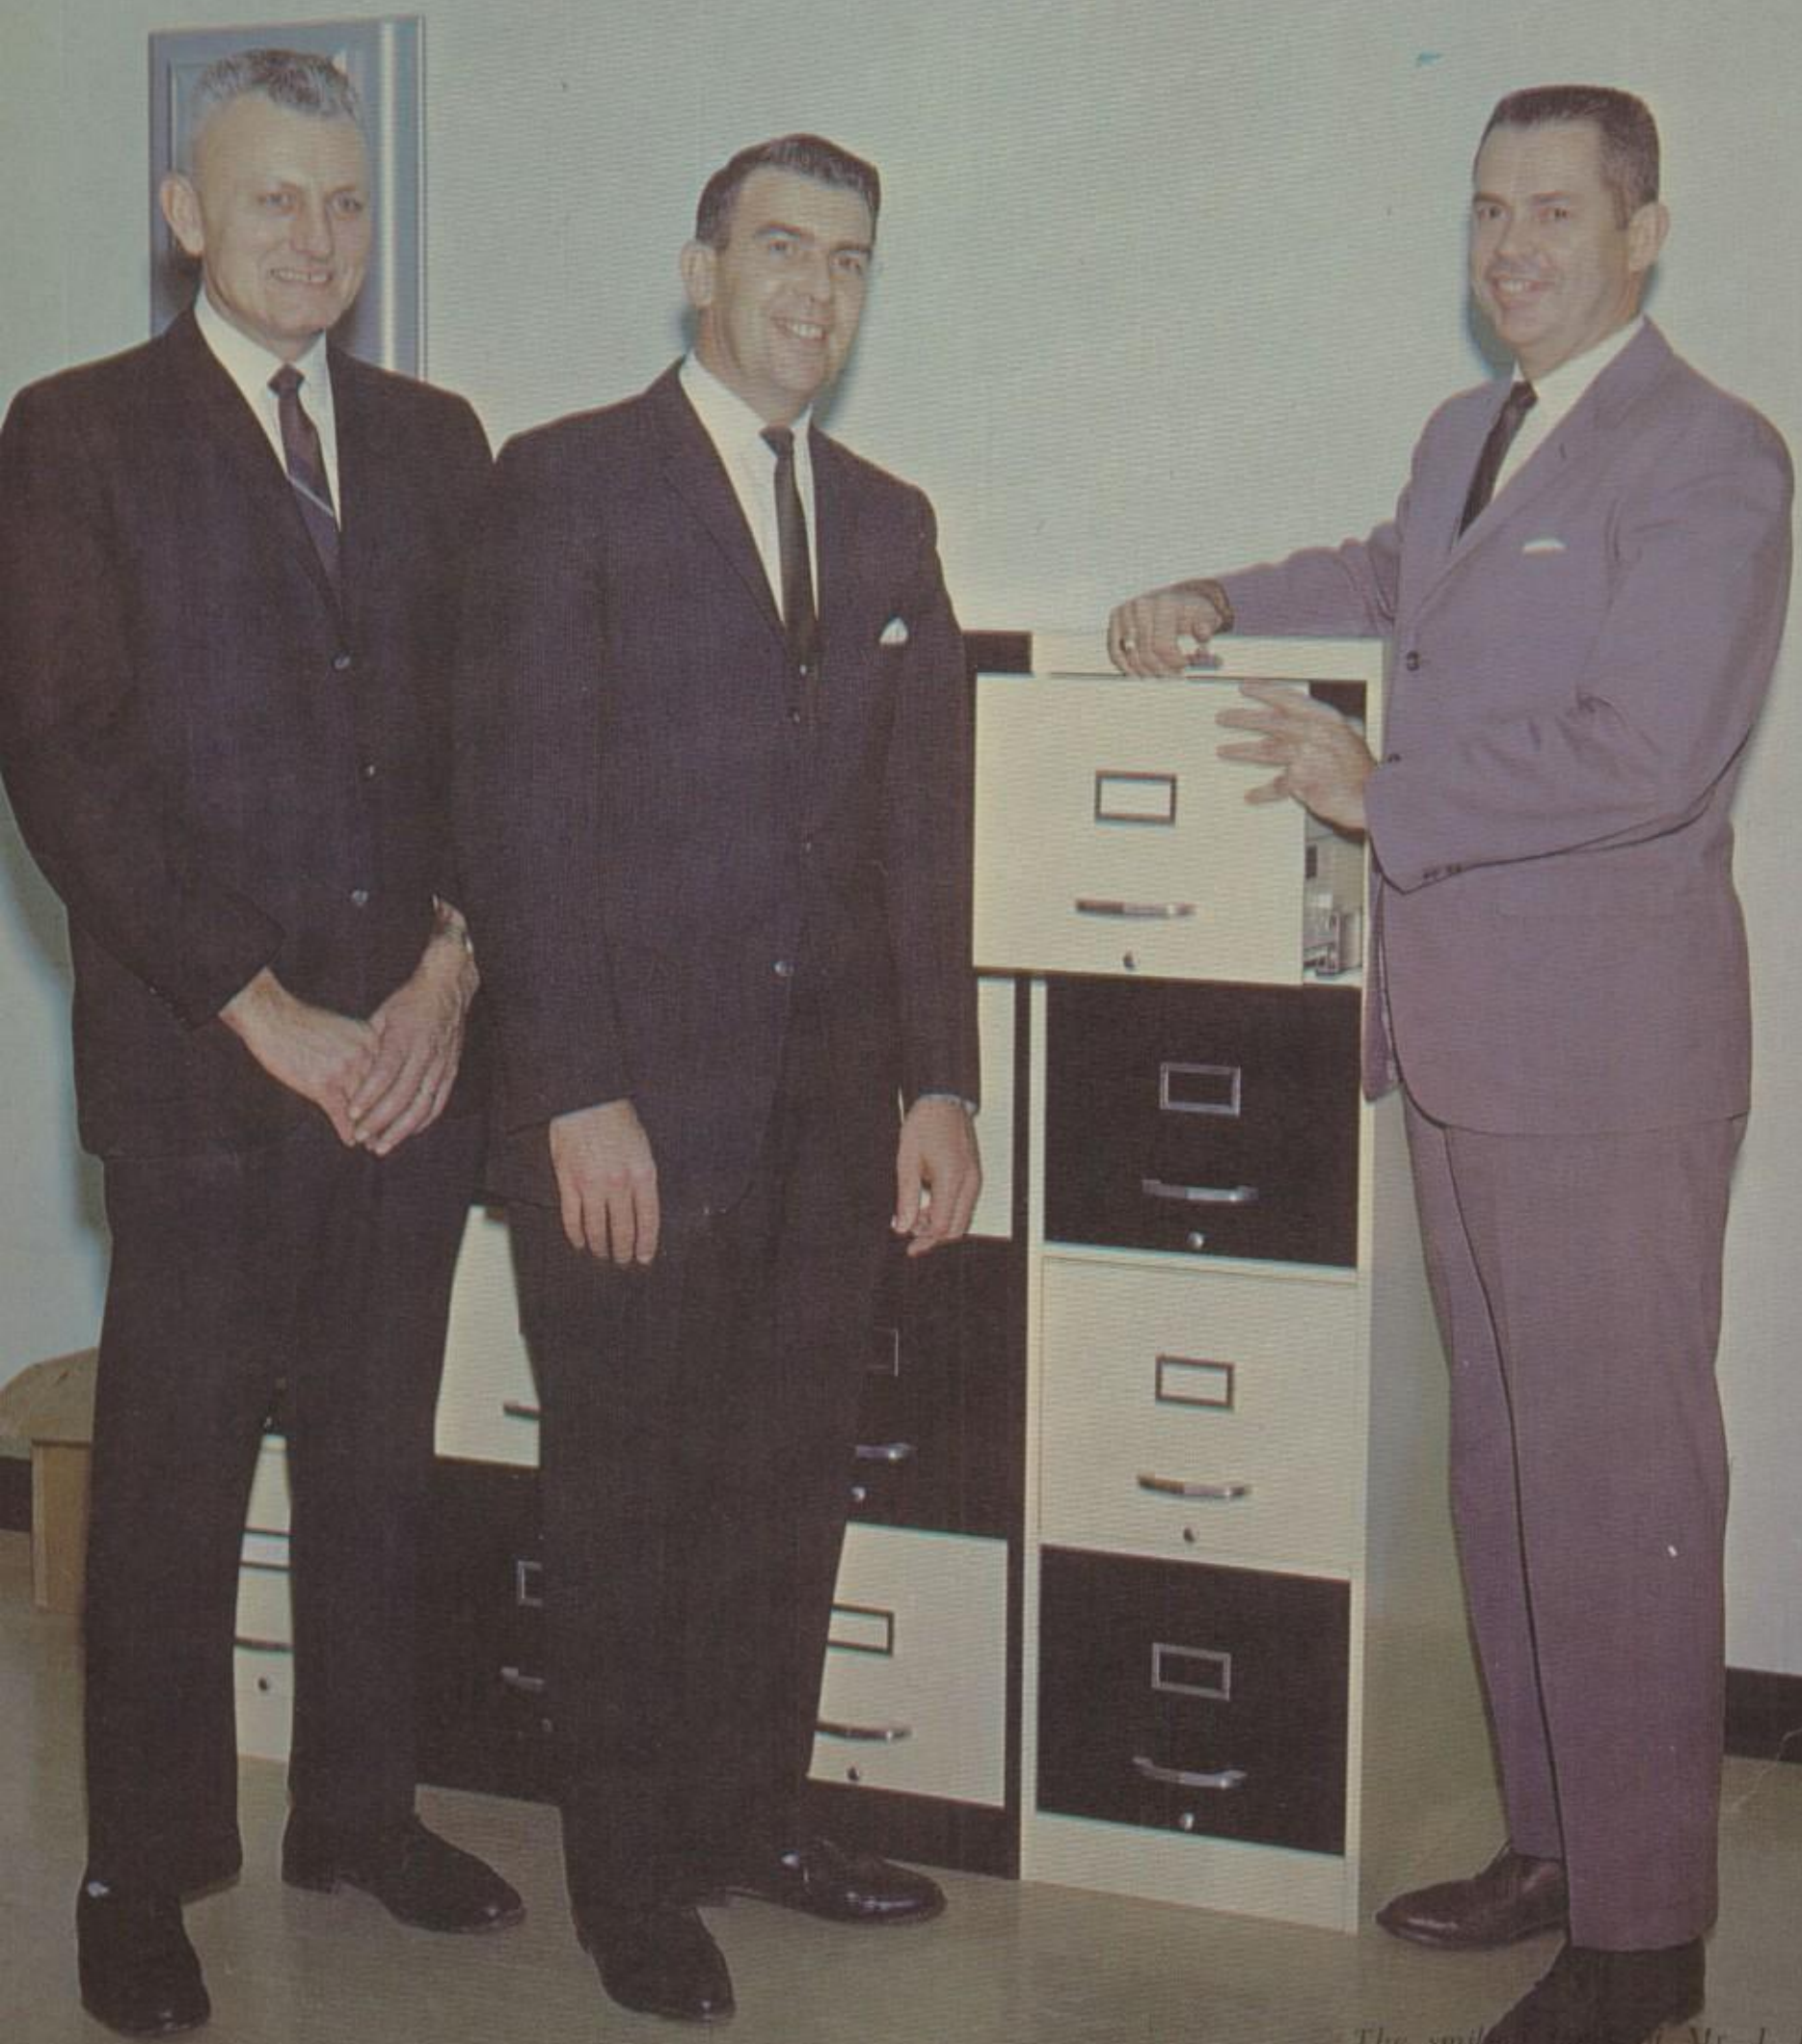
New Policies, Activities

Elected during the fall term, Student Council President Jim Whan, Vice-president Joe Hull, and Secretary Patty Beeks laid the foundation for a strong and working Council.

Each officer strived to carry out his respective campaign promises. New ideas put into action included: revising the school constitution, instituting an honor roll, observing "Tacky Day," scheduling regular meeting dates, ordering Council pins, and holding wrestling cheerleader elections. Continued support was given to student buses to away games, and scholarship plaques.

Miss Helen Gorsuch, counselor, and Mr. Maurice Nelson, principal, advised the members.

Madelyn Moore, Ruth Ann George, Phil Kinman, Mark DeVore and Dorothy Duff scrutinize each other's garb in the Student Council's first annual "Tacky Day."



The smiling faces of Mr. J. B. Taylor, president of the school board, Mr. Maurice Nelson, principal, and Mr. A. E. Beach, superintendent, exemplify the optimistic outlook of MHS in her new home.

Expanded Facilities

Although myriads of details and decisions faced the board and administration in this initial year, they maintained excellence in educational standards.

The board supervised the move and is directing the policies regulating the triple A facility. Regular duties of establishing budgets and organizing the curriculum were successfully achieved.

Superintendent A. E. Beach and Principal Maurice L. Nelson coordinated their ideas to formulate plans involving students and staff as all grew familiar to new surroundings. Together, they solved the numerous problems that arose through usage of the new plant.

In his first year at MHS, Mr. Nelson proved a capable administrator. He upheld educational ideals while assisting students and faculty with their difficulties and guiding a smooth-running operation.

Expansion! Students have the physical advantages of an attractive library, a well equipped cafeteria and guidance in many areas of individual growth.

Discussing his future, each senior conferred with Miss Helen Gorsuch, counselor. Among other numerous services she guided underclassmen in preparation of schedules for the coming year.

Mrs. E. F. Tindall and Mrs. A. J. Dinsdale supervised study halls in the library, while Mrs. R. T. Wright, librarian, aided students as did assistant librarians. Mrs. Lowell Thompson, dietician, prepared noon meals for MHS'ers with the help of student aids and fellow workers.

Mrs. Lowell Thompson, Mrs. Arthur Wilson, and Mrs. Charles Lindstrom, cafeteria workers, use the new cafeteria equipment in the kitchen to prepare meals for approximately 600 students daily.

Scholars Advance, Become Proficient

Realizing the importance of communication in today's world, English instructors stress the study of advanced literature and the cultivation of improved listening, and clear, concise thinking.

Progress in these fields begins in the lower levels and is elevated by a correlated system of units designed to eliminate repetition of instruction. After completing the required courses, each student has received the basic preparation necessary for advanced study.

Modern World Complexities

Studying the past, gaining insight into today's problems, and seeking a better tomorrow are the goals of the history department.

In order to penetrate these perplexities, students study the events through the century, the evolution of man through the ages, and his reaction in history. Gaining a deeper understanding of yesterday, students should have a better perspective of today while participating in the nation's spiraling surge of space-age achievements.

Preparing to enter the complex world of business, students learn to recognize trends and problems, and how to approach them. In solving these technicalities, tomorrow's businessmen learn basic skills, employing adding machines, electrical typewriters, calculators, and electronic computers. These courses create an awareness not only of business, but also lead into specific areas of study, as law, insurance, and tax accounting. Business courses are included in the Vocational Act of 1965.

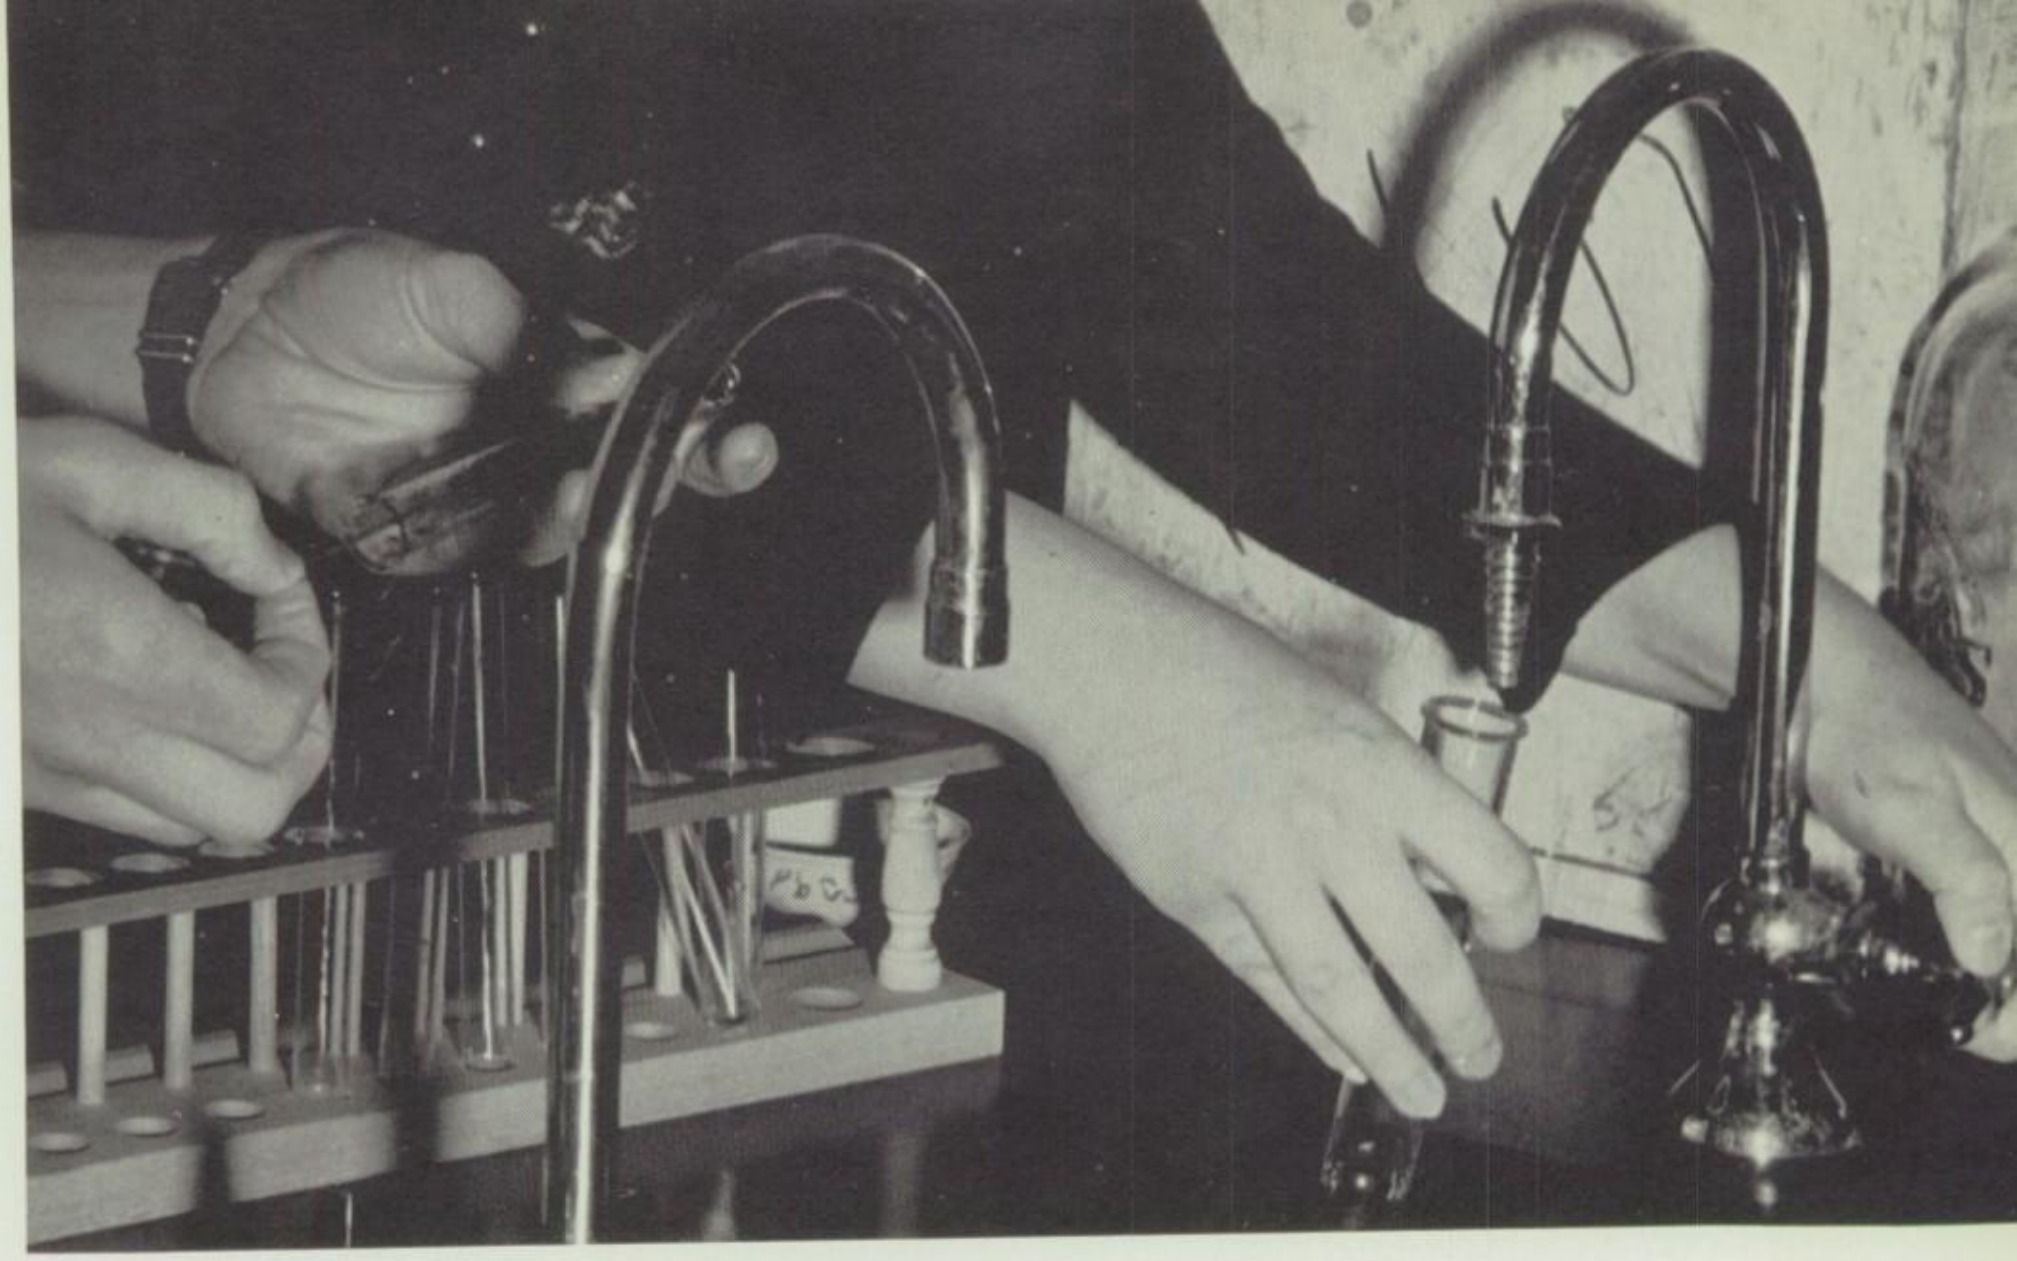
Math, Science

In training for today's scientific environment, many students found their interests through math and science courses offered at MHS.

Classes in the curriculum vary from functional math to advanced math, and general science to physics and chemistry. Curriculum was augmented by new charts, tables, specially equipped algebra desks, better lab facilities, solarium, and a dark room. Important learning opportunities in this area of education included field trips, home projects, and experiments.



Scrubbing, washing, pre-laboratory duties precede each experiment in order to obtain accurate results in the study of rate of solution in the lab.

Jerry Wohlford, Mike Williams, and Earl Soetaert, trombone trio, rehearse in one of the practice rooms, a new feature of the music department.

Music and foreign languages help students find new sources of pleasure and enjoyment as well as aiding them in understanding and communicating with other members of the modern world.

With the employment of a 24-station language laboratory, French and Spanish classes utilized the audio-lingual methods. Studying foreign customs and cultures, students felt the need for greater knowledge of man, how he lives, thinks and speaks.

Music, another language, known, studied, and loved by men, is the "taste of honey" in school life for many. A study of this worldwide media has helped people of one land become acquainted with other peoples.

French II students Carolyn Siddens, Mary Butcher, Kathy Wharton, Ron Moore, and Earl Soetaert utilize the laboratory daily as do other students enrolled in all language classes.

Additional vocational courses were inaugurated this year in the home economic, shop, and vocational agriculture classes.

New welding equipment and a large shop area supplemented the agriculture department. A better equipped industrial arts shop and mechanical drawing room aided shop students in obtaining experiences not only in the drafting of projects, but also in the creation of them. Several agriculture classes have double class periods, and most instructors in this field believed on-the-job-training is the best teacher.

In the home economics section, co-eds enjoyed the use of the latest styled stoves, refrigerators, and cabinets as well as new sewing facilities. Family foods, family clothing, and occupational foods were offered as single semester courses. The new classes in shop and home economics follow the Federal Vocational Act of 1965.

Striving to build their pupils' character and to give them an opportunity for conditioning their bodies and expressing themselves, the physical education instructors employed individual training and development.

Intraclass contests included touch football, basketball, soccer, volleyball, and badminton. Intramurals were reinstated by Coach Doyle Thomas, with all-star teams from each class competing in play-offs. A balance beam, a horse, ropes, and parallel bars added success in bodybuilding.

Health students added to their knowledge of bone structure and health care to round out their hygienic education.

Drivers' training emphasized individual accomplishment as novice drivers learned to manipulate the car. Students studied parts of the chassis and the integral workings.

Student managers Doug Cushman, kneeling, David Rush, Jerry Wohlford, Stanley Mounts, Steve Bixler, and Alan Showers examine various articles of athletic equipment.

Students, Administration

Office staffs and custodial corps kept the school functioning on even keel in their various fields, serving students, faculty members, and administrators.

Secretaries assisted club treasurers in checking club finances and keeping daily attendance records, and aided in maintaining the flow of communications between this and the other schools in the R-II system.

Capable custodians maintained the new building, keeping it clean and in good shape. They promoted community pride in the school and surrounding grounds by its wellkept appearance.

An End

by Gary Jones

One leg of a journey completed . . . the road behind is the foundation for the road ahead.

Graduation climaxes twelve years of education bringing 127 seniors to a misty summit. A ray of sunshine parts the fog to give a glimpse of a long, unfinished road winding to the horizon . . . a Genesis of the future.

The first of four years was in itself a beginning. County Government Day and the freshman dance perpetrated both educational and extracurricular phases of Maryville High School. Our freshman candidate for Student Council president was elected in the spring to take office for the ensuing school year.

We met increased activities our sophomore year. Although sophomore functions were not in the limelight, we worked behind the scenes gaining valuable experience for the road ahead. One project was to assist as servers at the Junior-Senior Prom.

Class sponsors, Mrs. Donald Embree, Mrs. Lawrence Wilson, Mr. Craig Little, and Mr. John McGinness pulled, pushed, and prodded a junior year into success. With their care and cooperation, a majority of juniors worked at the junior stand to provide for the prom entitled "A Roman Holiday." Our Honors' night candidates were chosen by the student body to titles of Miss MHS and Mr. and Miss MHS attendant.

After a lapse of one year, our candidate for Student Council president again took office as a senior. Seniors were presidents of all but two clubs. A senior was chosen as Miss MHS at the final Honors' Night. As class activities, we presented the Back-to-School Dance and the Holiday Hop. We worked . . . we played . . . we graduated.

The first class to leave the new Maryville R-II High School divides into separate paths. We will go our own way, our own road, contributing our share to reach that horizon.

FTA Members Promote

FTA members broadened their knowledge of the educational field as they pondered the question, "Would I make a good teacher?"

Guest speakers, films, slides, and panel discussions about the different facets of teaching composed the monthly meetings.

Students participated in FTA Teaching Day, sponsored a faculty tea, served as guides for Open House, and traveled to Kansas City to see "The Sound of Music." Delegates and sponsors attended district and state conferences.

New officers were initiated at the second annual Parents' Night Banquet.

Beth Corrough displays her prowess as a teacher on FTA Teaching Day as she instructs Mrs. Robert Brown's typing class.

Apply Techniques

A Homecoming float, trips to Kansas City for the American Royal and the Farm Show, Fire Prevention and Farm Safety Drives, district and state FFA contests and the parent-son banquet occupied the time of the Future Farmers.

State FFA President David Hockensmith, '65 graduate of MHS, spoke at the parent-son banquet. New officers were installed and the awards earned by the boys during the year were presented by Mr. William Bushmeyer, sponsor.

The chapter elected one Star Chapter Farmer and nominated two State Farmer candidates this year and took high honors in district and state contests. As a service to the school the boys finished posts to be placed along the corners of the school drive.

Future Nurses, Scientists

Future Nurses and interested scientists probed into the mysteries of life at the hospital and in the test tube.

Candystriping at St. Francis Hospital underwent a reorganization in the spring and orientation classes were conducted for beginning candystripers.

A trip to St. Bernard's psychiatric unit at Mercy Hospital and the Iowa School for the deaf in Council Bluffs, Ia., climixed a year of hard work. The group also donated $50 to the St. Francis Hospital Fund.

Scientists set up a dark room and learned to develop their own pictures. Public address systems and projectors occupied some junior scientists as they assisted in organizing the technical side of school assemblies, programs, and class plans for teachers.

Misses Joyce Dorrel and Margaret Frueh assisted the FNA, and Mr. George Williams sponsored the Science Club.

Science Club officers and sponsor observing contact printing in the MHS darkroom are Steve Carstenson, treasurer; Mr. George Williams, sponsor; Rego Jones, president; Joyce Meyer, secretary, and Ren Hinshaw, vice president.

Language Clubs Explore

Supplementing classroom bookwork with plays, tapes, and holiday celebrations, members of the Le Cercle Francais and El club de espanol added new dimensions to language study.

A pinata party for the Spanish Club, a Mardi Gras celebration for French enthusiasts, and a joint trip to Kansas City to sample cuisine and programs of foreign flavors highlighted the year.

Mrs. Luther Belcher, jr., Spanish instructor, and Mrs. Donald Embree, French instructor, aided the clubs in their activities.

Journalists Meet

Enjoying food prepared by the Quill and Scroll members at the annual back-to-school breakfast are faculty members Mr. Craig Little, Mr. George Williams, Mr. Doyle Thomas, and Mr. Delbert Dick.

For journalism students the year began with a Quill and Scroll breakfast for all faculty, personnel, and "J" students.

A surprise Halloween party for the "J cubs" and a Christmas party for Forum employees were projects of the organization. Five members achieved the high standards for initiation this Spring.

Engrossed in learning the techniques and mechanics of news writing, beginning students wrote and rewrote until weekly Hi-Lights editors and Mrs. Luther Belcher, jr., advisor, were satisfied. Efforts were worthwhile as the newspaper received a special excellent award from the Missouri Interscholastic Press Association.

Mrs. Mack Jackson, financial advisor of the Maryvillian, and Gary Jones, business manager, were in charge of Honors' Night, sponsored by the "J" department.

Pete Hill and Pam Imes check over contest winners announced in the MIPA State Newsletter.

Band officers Greg Watkins, president; Sherry Cook, secretary-treasurer; Ray Cummins, vice president, and Susan Clark, librarian, make a last minute check on arrangements for the spring band concert.

Band Studies,

To maintain its high standards, members of the MHS Band held sectional rehearsals and individual sessions before and after school, in addition to daily practice during first hour band period.

Presenting several programs during the year, the band combined with the A Cappella Choir for the Christmas Musicale and the Pops Concert. School spirit was boosted when the Pep Band played at pep assemblies and ball games.

New this year was the Marching Band, rehearsed and welded into an integral unit before its initial appearance in the Homecoming Parade. The band led students to the blazing site during the bonfire pep rally.

Band and ensembles earned I ratings in the District and State Music Contests, as the band was rated one of the top groups in Northwest Missouri. The Stage Band and small ensembles were active, performing for local organizations throughout the year.

Mr. Craig Little, vocal instructor, explains the mechanics of the tape recorder to A Cappella Choir officers, Rego Jones, vice president; Steve Carstenson, president, and Mitzi Moore, secretary.

In search of lost music are members of the boys' quartet, Ren Hinshaw, Erich Winter, Steve Carstenson, and Rego Jones.

Music Provides Enjoyment

Challenged by Director Craig Little, the A Cappella Choir conquered and performed the techniques, rhythms, and interpretations of Negro Spirituals, jazz numbers, folk songs, and classical music.

Schubert's "Mass in G" was presented April 5 in the early spring concert. Guest soloists were Mr. and Mrs. Byron Mitchell and Mr. Floyd Garrett. Choir and the Stage Band united to present the third annual Pops Concert which featured popular tunes, Negro spirituals, and musical stunts.

Entries in the district music contests, April 1 and 2, earned six I ratings.

Dramatists Study,

Drama Club officers Lynn Hillix, Pam Imes, Janice Oglesby, Helen Hillix, and Greg Watkins discuss plays to be presented by the organization.

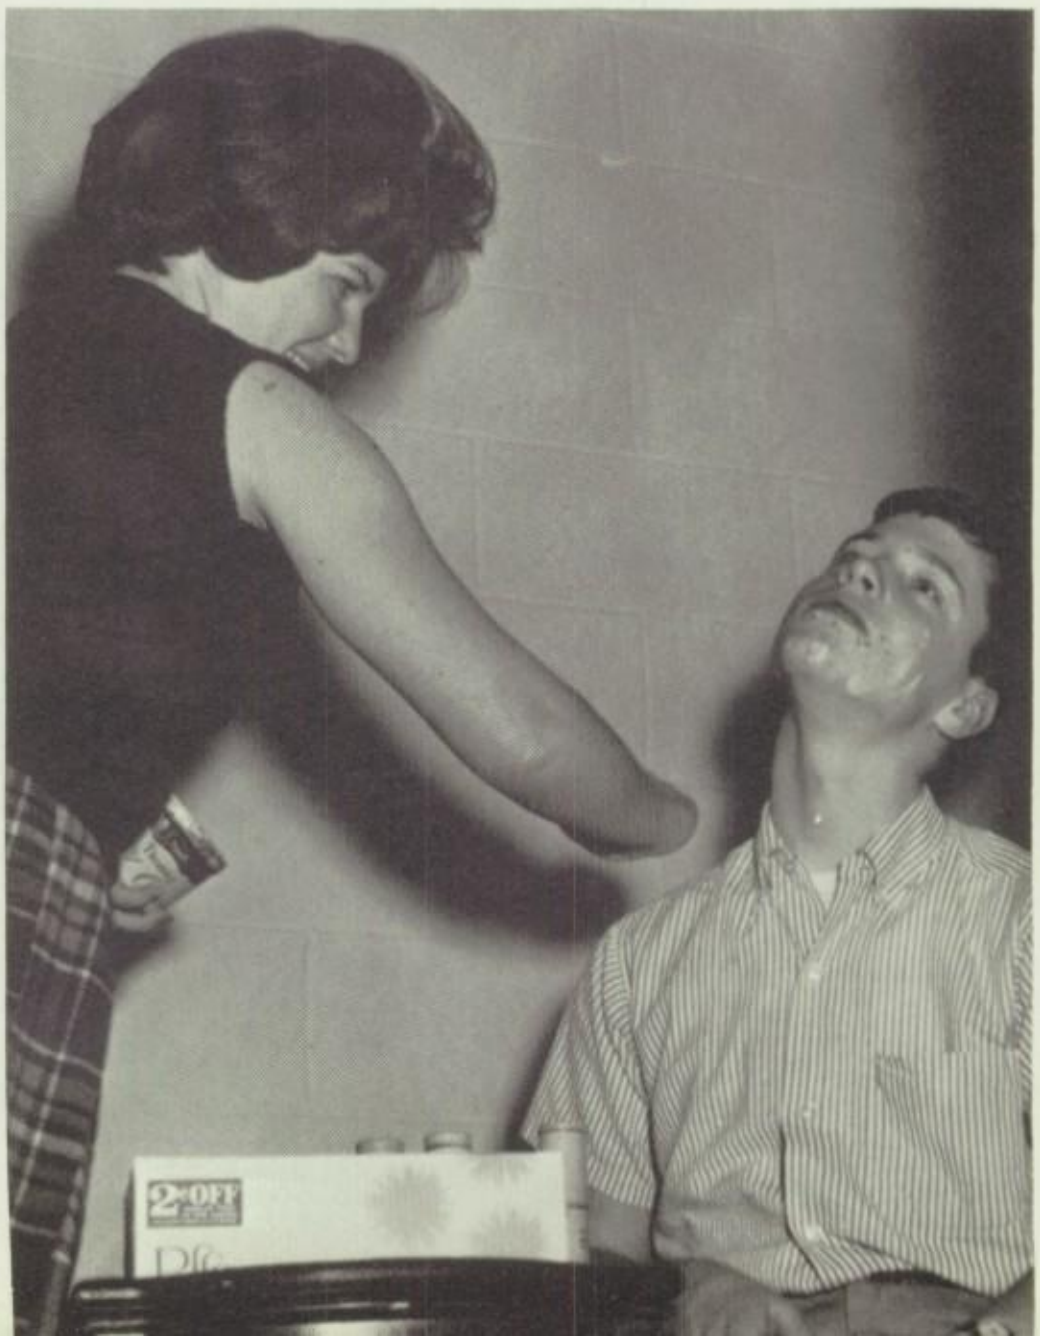
Present Interpretations

Skills in theatrics as audience contact were cultivated by Drama Club members as they learned various techniques through study and participation.

Dramatists presented "Pop Reads the Christmas Carol" by Stephen Vincent Benet for the Christmas Assembly, and a cutting from "The Devil and Daniel Webster," Benet, for Honors' Night as their major productions of the year.

Studying make-up techniques, students experimented on each other to produce bizarre characters from plays.

Lynn Hillix applies make-up to Mark Watkins before the Drama Club's presentation "The Devil and Daniel Webster" at Honors' Night.



Cheerleaders Lead

Patty Willhoyte, Joyce Meyer, Debbi Watkins, and Donna Fisher make signs for a pep assembly.

Cheerleaders in rehearsal for Honors' Night are: Carolyn Imes, Sheila Johnson, Cindy Wright, Shirley Mounts, Cynthia Young, and Gloria Sherman.

Wrestling cheerleaders are Caren Young, Nannette King, Vicki Horton, Francine Merenghi, and Debby Courtney.

Pep Club, Arouse Spirit

Searching—the byword of the 15 cheerleaders —as they devised new ways to quicken interest and to arouse school spirit in Spoofy's new home.

One successful project was a bonfire pep rally, during which the Marching Band, students, and Spooferettes marched to the fire site, led by the torch-bearing cheerleaders. Varsity leaders served at the M-Club Parents' Day tea. B-team members were responsible for spirit-raising signs and pep assembly skits. Other duties included hostessing the Midland Empire Conference Pre-Season Tourney held at MHS.

Initiated this year were the wrestling cheerleaders. These enthusiasts supported the grapplers at all home and away meets.

Mrs. Lawrence Wray sponsored these coeds who added pep and enthusiasm to all sports activities.

"This is the way we'll do it," explains Patty Willhoyte to Carolyn Imes, Cindy Wright, and Shirley Mounts, in the cheerleader kick-off assembly skit.

Presenting the colors at an MHS ballgame are the varsity cheerleaders.

Spooferettes Generate School Spirit

Portraying Savannah Savages at the first Bonfire-Pep Rally are Francine Merenghi, Cathy Cook, Myra Wedlock, and Debbi Courtney.

Spooferettes, led by President Mitzi Moore, explored many methods of arousing school spirit and enthusiasm.

The girls made peppy signs and sponsored buses to away games, Wide Tie Days, and pep assemblies to instigate spirit. A year of hard work was climaxed by the February dance, "Cupidity."

Mrs. Lawrence Wray, sponsor, guarded the Spoofy uniform worn by many girls in "One-night Spoofy stands."

Kelly green weskits were voted in as a uniform change, the first in four years.

With New Activities

Announced as the winner brings a look of shocked surprise to the face of Trudy Oglesby, the best Spooferette initiate.

Spooferette officers, full of ideas for pep raising activities are Nicka Cook, Student Council representative; Vicki Baker, secretary; Betty Jo Fields, sergeant-at-arms; Mary Ann Wharton, vice president; Kathy Wagner, treasurer, and Mitzi Moore, president.

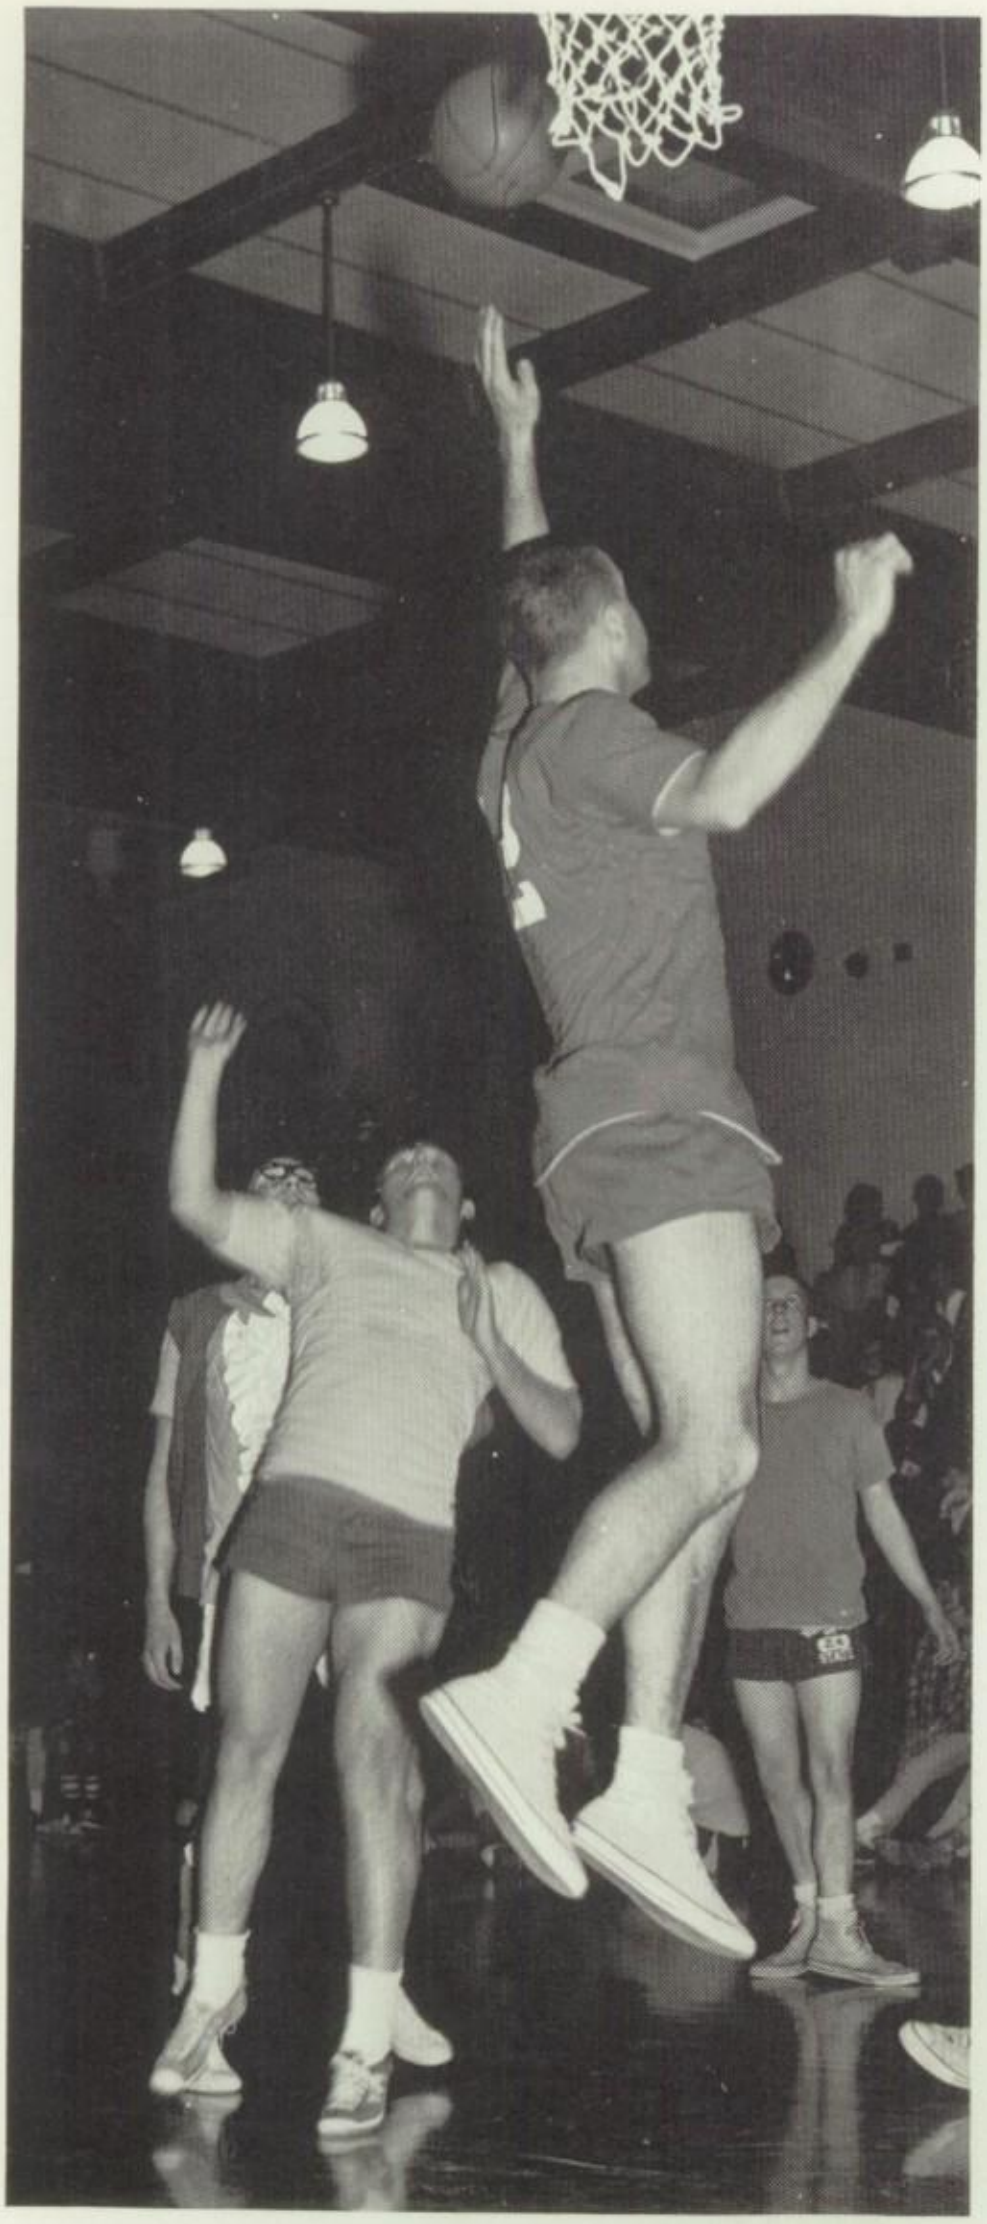
M-Club Encourages

With Steve Schottel presiding, the M-Club played an active role in school life by giving service and encouraging good sportsmanship at all athletic events.

The group co-sponsored a Parents' Day and reception for gridsters' parents at the Bedford football game. Members were hosts and ushers at the Midland Empire Conference Tournament, held in the high school gymnasium.

As a fund-raising project, the group held a senior-faculty basketball game which the seniors won, 42-40, the first win for the M-Club in eleven years.

In May new lettermen were initiated into the organization at an initiation ceremony supervised by Tom Westfall, Rodney Couts, and Kerry Slagle.



Spoofhound mentor Gene Jordan displays his skill to M-Club aces Rodney Couts and Gaines Hillix, and faculty opponent, Mr. Dean Schantz.

Steve Schottel mails his letter of intent to enroll at Kansas State University, Manhatton, Kas., acknowledging his formal acceptance of a full ride athletic scholarship.

Honorary Co-Captains

Assistant coach Gene Jordan, head coach Doyle Thomas, and freshman coach Terry Vest discuss strategies for an upcoming game with Lafayette.

'Hounds Fall,

Playing one of the roughest schedules in the school's history, the Spoofhounds failed to gain entrance into the win column during the '65-'66 season.

Gary Mackey, sophomore safety, raced 70 yards with an intercepted pass to bring the Spoofhounds a 7-7 tie with Bedford, their only consolation of the season.

Head coach Doyle Thomas, in his initial season with the 'Hounds, faced a lack of depth and experience, but helped the 'Hounds reach a new pinnacle in spirit and sportsmanship. Co-captains Gaines Hillix and Steve Schottel led the 'Hounds offensively. Tom Westfall, Mark DeVore, Schottel and Rodney Couts were stalwarts on defense. Quarterback Schottel took top scoring honors for the season.

The annual football banquet and later a trip to a professional football game highlighted the Spoofhounds' season.

Playing one of the roughest MHS football schedules, these varsity squad members formed a well knit team. Nobody seems to know quite where the ball is after Lafayette fumbles on their 12-yard line.

Promise for Future

A solid beginning may be the basis of success for future grid teams at MHS.

In the Genesis of their football careers, freshman and B team gridsters ran up impressive records due to their enthusiasm, will to win, and desire to play. Coach Terry Vest guided the 24 frosh to a 5-1 season, the best in four years. An early season loss to Savannah was avenged in a return contest.

B squad members, tutored by Coach Gene Jordan, improved as the season progressed and compiled a 2-1 slate, gaining valuable experience for next year's team.

Cagers Raise Hopes,

Suffering a lack of height and experience, the Spoofhounds posted a 5-19 season, the fourth losing basketball record in school history.

Steve Sutton and Steve Schottel dominated individual statistics throughout the season. Sutton was the high single game scorer with 30 points. John Wilson, who ranked third in scoring, was selected as the outstanding defensive star by Coach Gene Jordan.

Ken Crozier, along with Schottel, led the 'Hounds in rebounds. Jim Whan, 'Hound court general, was selected honorary captain for the season by his teammates.

A 73-72 victory over arch rival Savannah on Whan's last second jumper highlighted the Spoofhounds' season.

10-2 Record

Freshman cagers posted the best record in recent years, 10-2, losing only to Benton and King City.

Bob Ingels led the freshmen in all categories including scoring, rebounding, and field shooting. Chip Strong, Roger Poage, Jim Wilson, and Frank Schuster rounded out the starting quintet, coached by mentor Terry Vest.

B-squad members found tough competition in compiling a slate. Sophomores formed the nucleus of the team.

For early season conditioning, the grapplers run windsprints.

Grapplers Win Second at District,

Spoofhound wrestlers compiled another impressive season in their fifth year of interscholastic competition.

Bill Madden, honorary co-captain, led the 'Hounds during the season. Madden, with Jerry and Terry Dorrel, advanced to the Sub-State tournament. This trio led the Spoofhounds to a second place at District.

The 'Hound B team posted a 6-1 record, losing only two matches in their wrestling history.

Jerry Dorrel, who was runner-up at District and advanced to Sub-State, demonstrates an escape against opponent Carl Madden in a special assembly held at the first of the season.

Teams Compete in Track and Tennis

Maryville High spring sports teams faced blustery weather, rain, and improved competition and fell to the cellar of the Midland Empire Conference standings.

Coach Gene Jordan's cindermen compiled a 1-2 dual meet record. They placed first among eight teams participating in the Mound City Panther relays and second in a triangular meet with King City and Jefferson. Steve Schottel led the thinclads with 58 points to earn the Gold Track Shoe. Mark DeVore, Rob Wood, and Tom Westfall were other top point winners for the 'Hounds.

Spoofhound tennis players battled ever toughening competition in posting their 2-6 slate. Ken Crozier, Coby Lamb, Terry Dorrel, Ron Moore, and Bill Wells led the 'Hounds efforts. Crozier advanced to the semi-finals of the district tournament in St. Joseph but failed to place.

Girls Stress

Fitness through exercise keynoted the girls' physical education classes as they worked toward physical perfection with game units and Air Force exercises.

With Mrs. Lawrence Wray in command, girls studied softball, volleyball, soccer, and basketball, climaxing each unit with an intraclass tournament. A unit on square dancing and one on exercises, with the balance beam, horses, ropes, and parallel bars, rounded out the girls' physical education program.

Letters were awarded to two girls in each class for their skill in volleyball and basketball.

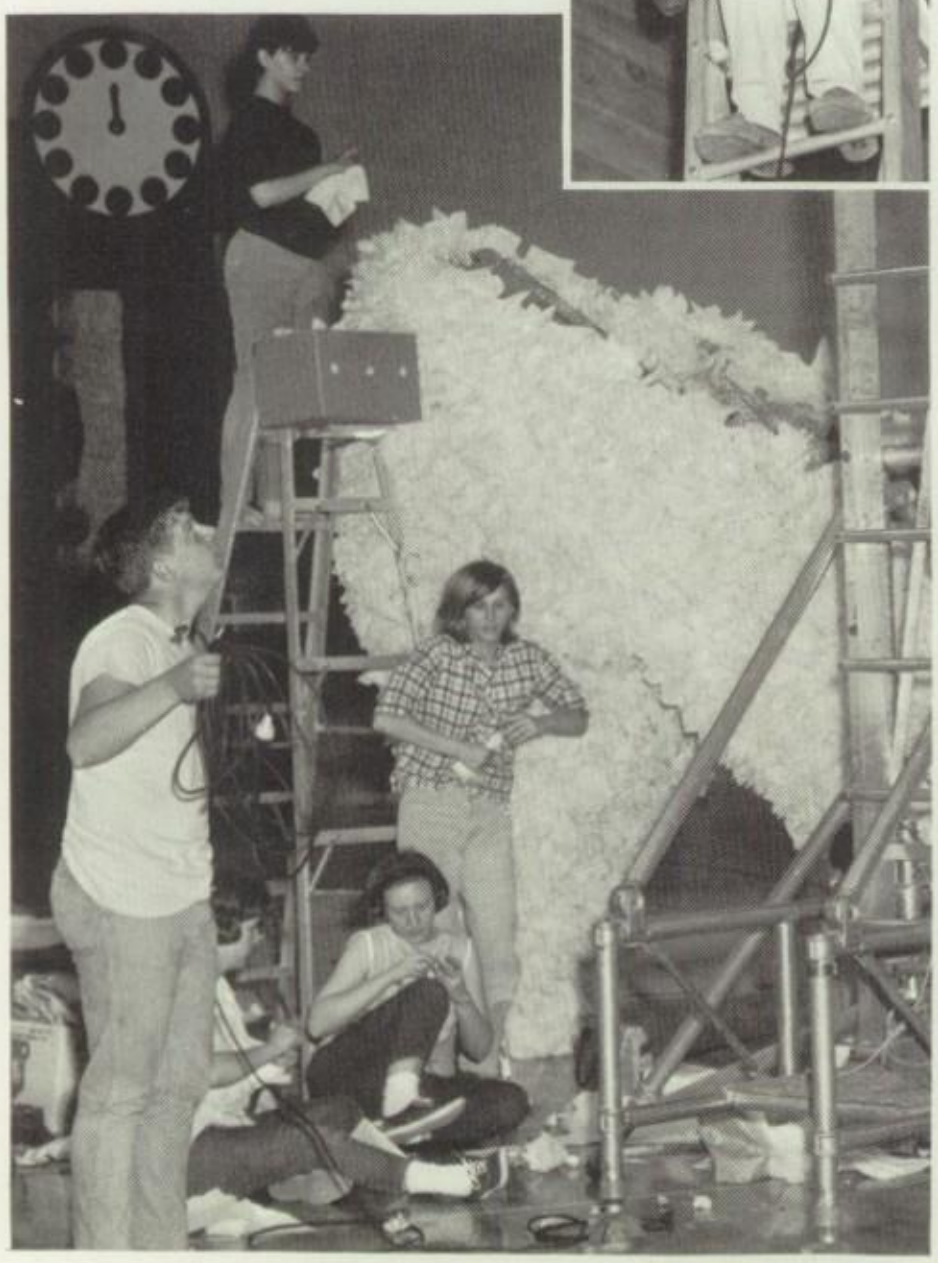
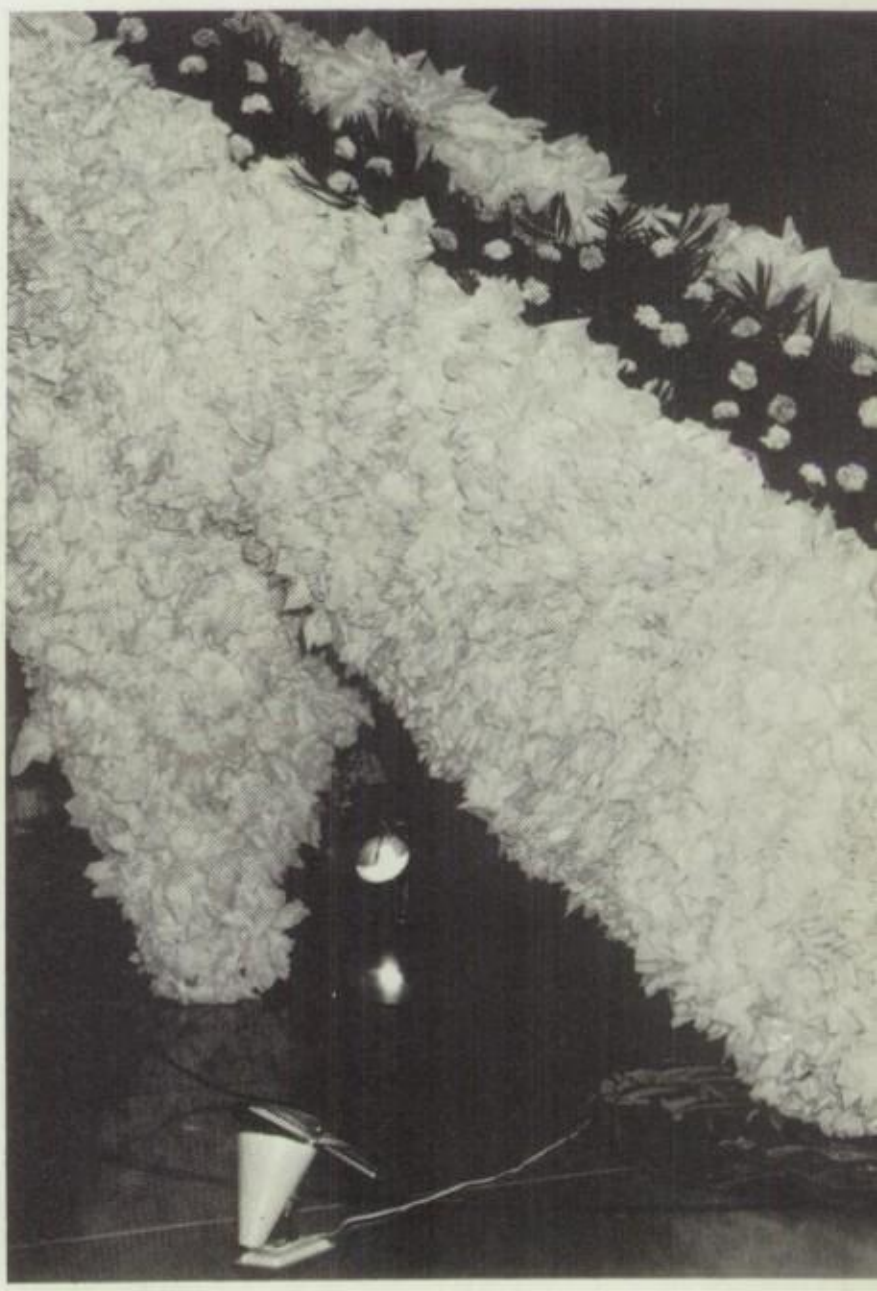
Debbi Watkins, Patty Beeks, Connie Gorsuch, and Mary Ray finish stuffing a glass slipper, while Tim Milner prepares for a heave to Mark DeVore, who is working on a majestic ceiling.



Thorough planning and extensive work by the juniors created a world of enjoyment for Prom '66.



From the moment footman Bill Phares announces them, Dinah Shell and Lane Zimmerman became royalty for the evening, as did Mitzi Moore, Ted Tyson, and Pam Beach, while they select from delicacies at the royal banquet. They could have danced all night, but the clock struck twelve and each Prince Charming escorted his Cinderella back to reality.

Enter a World of Fantasy at Cinderella Ball

Of Mice and Men, pumpkins and coaches, royal balls and striking clocks, gowns and glass slippers. . . .

Prom '66 represented these as well as memories of the past and challenges of the future.

Cinderella, from cinder girl to princess, the Prom theme, seemed appropriate for juniors and seniors alike, representing movement of each to better things through individual growth, onward and upward.

Debbi Watkins, junior class president and gracious hostess, welcomes guests to the ball.

Daniel Webster, as characterized by Greg Watkins, defends his client, farmer Jabez Stone, Randy Wood, from the clutches of Scratch, Bill Wells, and his jury.

Sir Andrew Peake runs through his self-styled drum solo for the "Prime Minister's Ball" entertainment.

'A Majestic Memory'

Nothing now is left,
But a majestic memory.
—LONGFELLOW

Memories of friends, elegance, excitement, and possibly disappointment. Memories of the Prime Minister's Ball. These and much more were the 1966 Honors' Night.

Candidates for Mr. MHS, Miss MHS, MHS Attendants, and class titles were selected by the student body from a list compiled by teachers. To be on this list, each student had a "B" average and a set number of activities. Students who had purchased Maryvillians then elected honorees to the coveted titles.

Jim Whan, the Prime Minister, and Rodney Couts, master of ceremonies, as a reporter from the London Daily Forum, teamed up to guide candidates, parents, and guests through the Ball festivities.

Such elite groups as the Madrigal Choir and Drama Club performed before the audience. Individual singers and dancers also provided entertainment.

The Madrigal choir performs at a "Prime Minister's Ball" before the Honors' Night parents, guests, and friends.

Assisting daily in the nurse's clinic, Terry Gomel, Billye Sue Belcher, and Trudy Scott are giving attention to Mary Lee Nielson, another nurse's aid.

Willing Students Provide

The girls helping in the nurse's clinic were all Future Nurses, the office aids were both business students, and the library assistants were interested in books and literature. The ones aiding in picking up the absentee slips daily gave part of a study period, and the cafeteria helpers often spent over two hours daily assisting the dieticians.

Needed Assistance

Sacrificing study halls and free periods, these students gave hours of service and aid to the school and administration, as well as furthering their own interests.

Upper: Office assistant Connie Adams types records for the file, for which Alice O'Riley is sorting them. Lower: Several of the students who daily picked up the absentee slips are Sharon Steele, Marcia Girling, Betty Jo Fields, Marsha George, Cathy Cook, and Ruth Ann George.

Students

Best typist awards were earned by Maribeth Owens, Coleen Jenson, Carolyn Imes, Ed Klass, and Beth Corrough.

Students representing separate departments are Ruth Ann George, most promising French student; Steve Schottel, Hooper Cup and Golden Track Shoe winner, and Carole Fields, Daughters of American Revolution Outstanding Citizenship Award.

Speech students compare certificates earned in district contests. Roger Mongold received his award for duet acting and extemporaneous speaking; Ann Cushman, poetry reading; C. W. Wright, radio speaking, and Pete Hill, duet acting.

Mr. Lawrence Wray commends and honors Prin. Maurice L. Nelson for a successful school year at the Awards Assembly. Mr. Nelson will leave the school administration field to serve as youth extension agent for the University of Missouri.

Earn Awards

Traditionally ending the school year, the Awards Assembly was a time to pause and to recognize outstanding students in specific fields. Students were honored in the areas of business, home economics, English, music, and athletics.

Faculty members presented the awards.

Most departments were represented with awards presented by them or by individuals of the community. Upper: Sherry Cook earned the Ralph Yehle Music Award and Greg Watkins received the Outstanding Senior Musician Award. Center: Home economists Carole Fields, Vicki Baker, and Mitzi Moore admire the place setting of silver which Vicki received, the Bell Sterling Silver Award. Carole was honored as the Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow, and Mitzi earned the Hotchkin's Fine China Award. Lower: Journalism students Pete Hill, Rodney Couts, and Pam Imes were recognized for receiving first, second, and third place, respectively, in advertising in the statewide high school newspaper contest conducted by the School of Journalism, University of Missouri.

Kathy Wagner was one of the 100 high school students who was chosen to attend the University of Kansas Science and Mathematics Camp for high-ability students.

Traditional Awards Are

Students who proved to be the hardest workers and leaders were recognized with awards at the end of the school year. Eight girls and twelve boys were selected to be delegates to Girls' and Boys' State. Other scholars were individually honored for their commendable work during the year.

The entire student body participated in the Student Council elections, the first time for a two-party system at Maryville High. The two registered parties, Students Unite Responsible Forces and United Students, carried out extensive campaigns to present their candidates to the voters. The U.S. party was successful electing Dana Hockensmith, president; David Watkins, vice president, and Paula Moyer, secretary. The officers-elect enthusiastically began the necessary Council business without delay.

Received in New Style

Karla Needels received commendation from Miss Helen Gorsuch on becoming the first Maryville High recipient of the Carolyn B. Ullman Teacher Education Scholarship.

Dana Hockensmith surveys a map in social studies, in which he excelled, giving him the privilege of represeniting Maryville High in the Sophomore Pilgrimage at Jefferson City.

Delegates chosen to represent Maryville High and Mount Alverno at Girls' State were, Sitting: Gerry Foster, Debbi Watkins, Cindy Sisk, and Nancy Ingels; Standing: Ann Schirmer, Caren Young, Janice Ackley, Carolyn Imes, Patty Willhoyte, and Jennie Sue Cline.

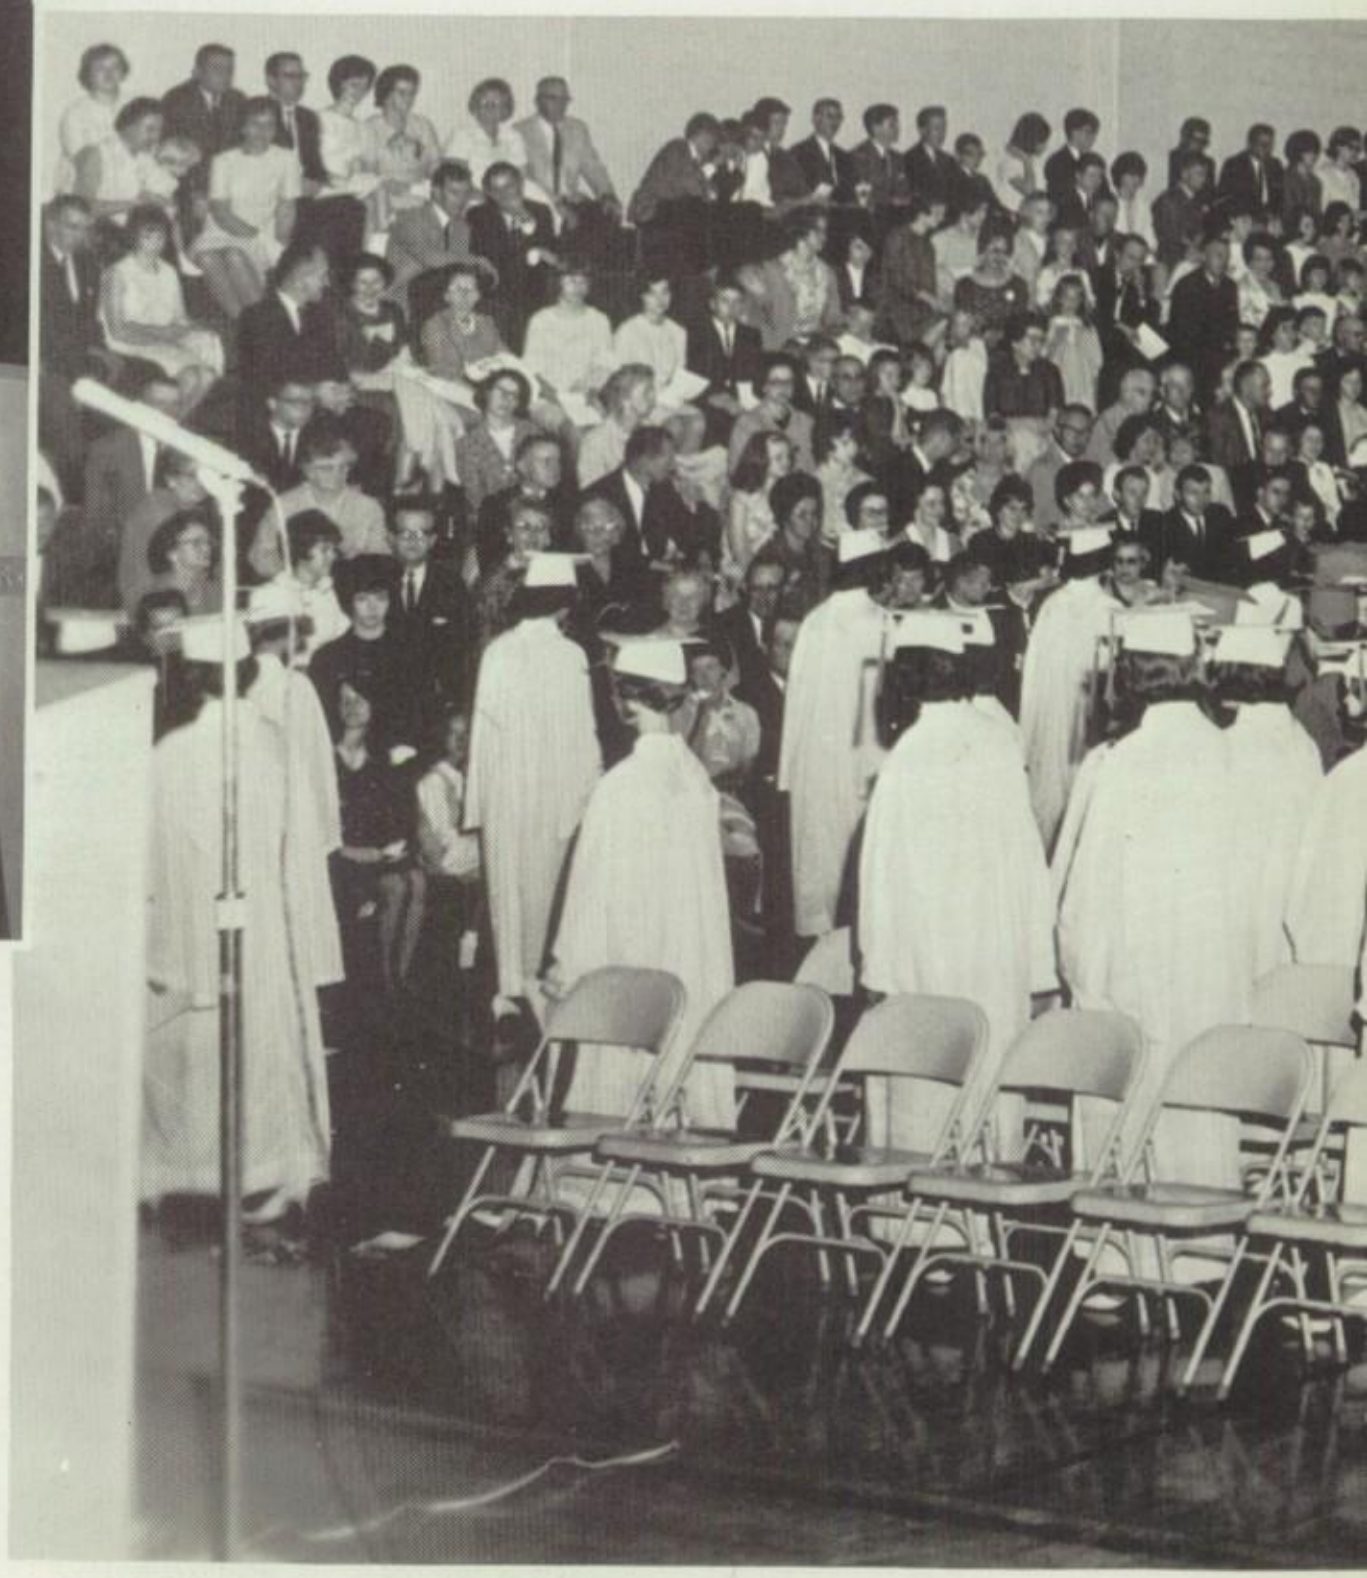
The Rev. Monk Bryan, Columbia, delivers an inspiring and meaningful Commencement address, "Live Like the Sequoias."

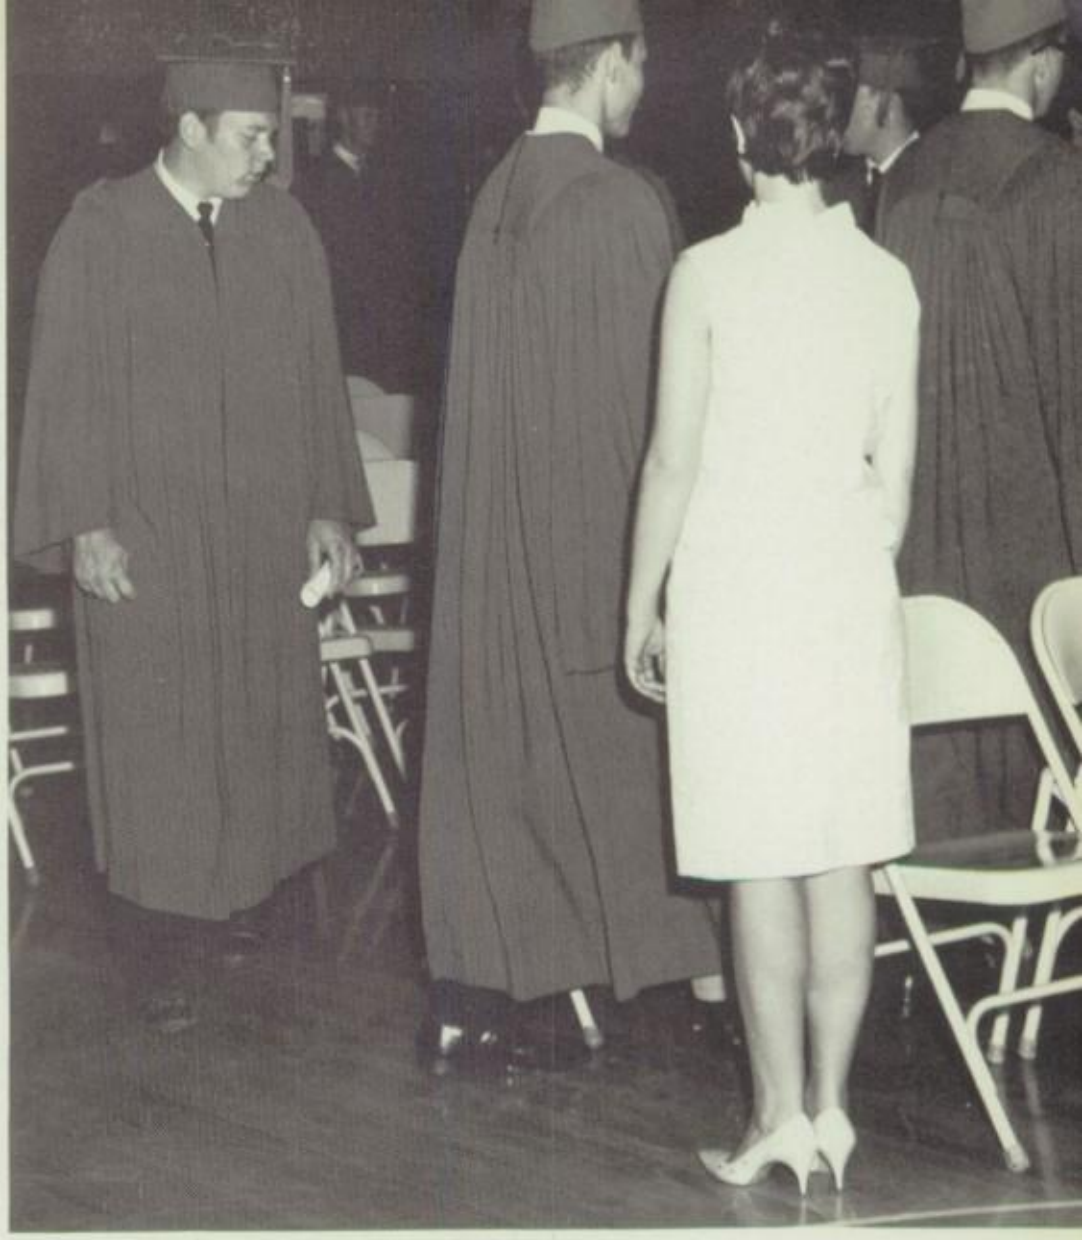


Receive Recognition

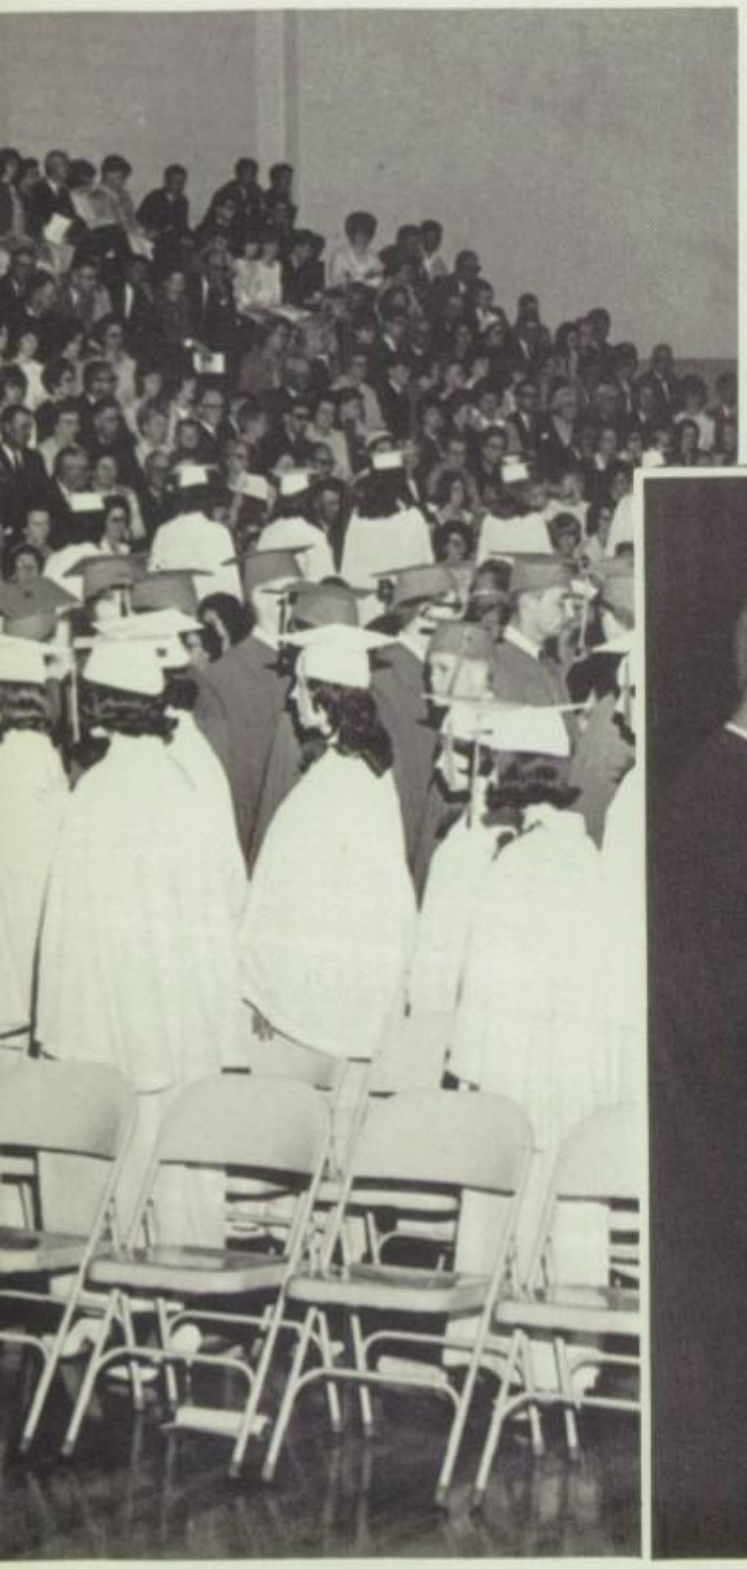
Thus, seniors achieve their goal—and much more. A diploma only signifies the real meaning. But how else do you tell the story of twelve years of education, experience, and knowledge?

With custom seniors were honored by Baccalaureate and Commencement, but a new tradition was founded this year. The Senior Assembly gave special recognition to the graduates-elect before the student body.

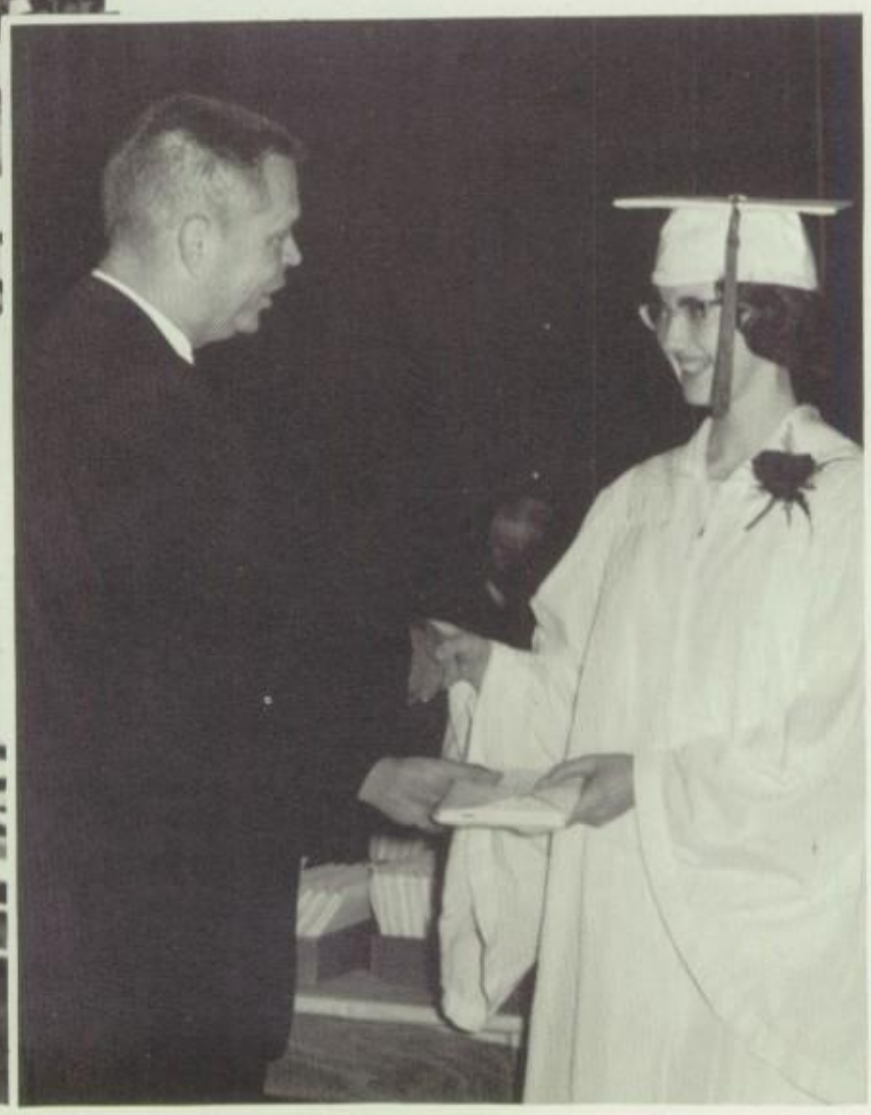
So, another school year reaches—reaches a beginning.



Class president Debbi Watkins serves as junior marshal for Baccalaureate leading the seniors into the gymnasium-auditorium.



Linda Steven's smile reflects that sense of accomplishment culminating twelve years of effort as she receives her diploma from Supt. A. E. Beach.



A Bible . . . A Hammer . . . A Spirit

A creator of structures and a builder of souls . . . one skilled in the use of tools and the power of words . . . one who amplified the talents of youth with his teaching and influenced the thoughts of maturity in his parish.

Mr. Delbert C. Dick, 22 years a Maryville High School industrial arts instructor and pastor of the Pickering Christian Church, father, husband, and friend of all. He gave of himself that others might be happier, asking no recompense for his efforts.

His skilled hands guided many young men to careers in industrial arts and his sermons inspired youth to a better understanding of religious concepts and ideals.

He is gone now . . . but his spirit lives on in the hearts of those whose lives have been enriched by him. He served both man and God well.

For these things we will remember him.

THE REV. DELBERT C. DICK
1903-1966

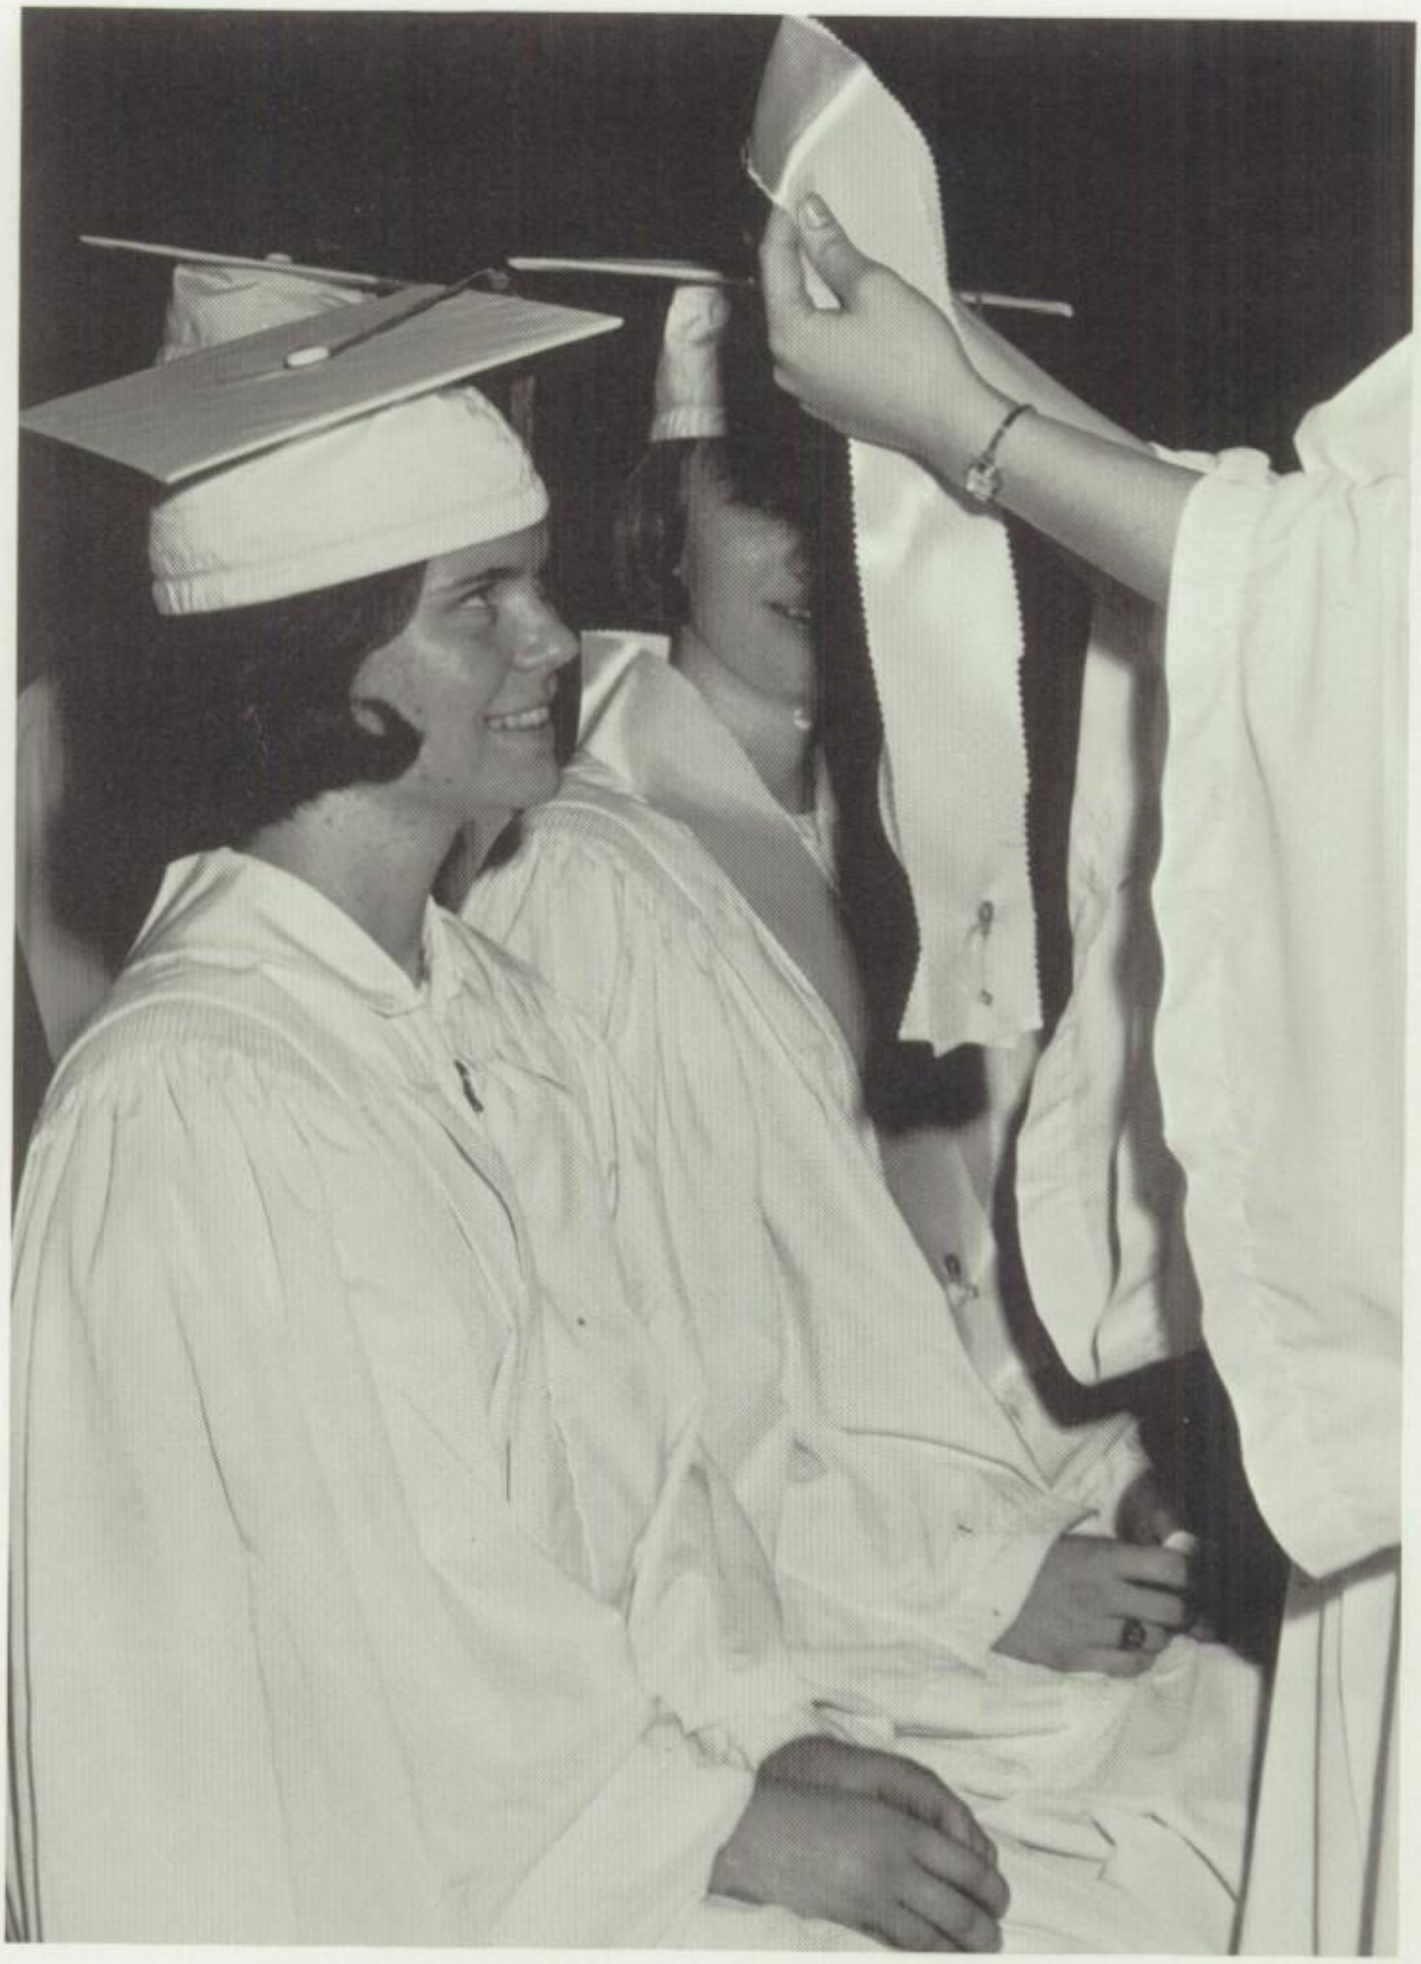
Graduates Face the Genesis of Tomorrow



During the 1965-66 school year, the traditions of the past crystallized with the advancement of the present.

Through diligent study and capable guidance we attained unprecedented heights of physical and mental achievement. In striving for and in achieving these goals, we received honors, and entered a new existence, leaving the acceptance of maturity to our predecessors.

Although this terminates a vital phase in our lives, thoughts of this Omega are brushed aside as we look forward to face the Genesis of tomorrow.
